

1,500 aren't having a cow over sign

Re: Cheese shop told to get the cow off its roof, Feb. 17.

Jacques Leury, the manager of Cheddar Et Cetera, is absolutely correct that surely city bylaw officers "could use their time better."

Again, one person complains to the city — I have no idea why — and the wheels of bureaucracy start. What about the 1,500 people who have sided with the owner by signing a petition on behalf of the store? Does that not cancel out the one complainer?

Good for Bob Monette, Orleans councillor, for taking up the fight on behalf of the store. Better judgment should be used by these city employees.
