

Desroches becomes third incumbent to enter race

Gloucester-South Nepean Councillor Steve Desroches is the third incumbent to officially register to run for a council seat in the October municipal election. In a press release, Desroches said he has "worked very hard to advance and deliver key infrastructure projects to keep up with the growth in South Ottawa," and highlighted his work on Limebank Road improvements and the Strandherd-Armstrong bridge project. Orléans Councillor Bob Monette and Rideau-Rockcliffe Councillor Jacques Légendre are the other incumbents who have registered to run in the Oct. 25 election, according to the city. Meanwhile, one mayoral candidate has apparently dropped out of the race. Gordon Skinner's name no longer appears on the city's list of candidates. Bay Councillor Alex Cullen, former mayor and MPP Jim Watson, Sean Ryan and Robert Gauthier are running for mayor.
